Bureaucracy

THERE are two kinds of people in the world, those who save and those who do not. Those who try to save are usually people who have fine characteristics, such as thrift, industry, integrity, a decent foresight into the future, a love of independence, and a power of self-denial. Not all the people who possess these characteristics can save, but as the generations pass by, these characteristics are transmitted by heredity. It is safe to say that in the long run the result will be individuals who save. It makes no difference whether a farmer saves and buys a plow and rents the plow to his neighbor, receiving a return, or whether a man makes a small saving, puts it in the bank along with millions of others, and the bank loans that money for the promotion of large industries. In either case the essential thought is capital.

The United States is a land of resources. The accumulated savings up to the time of 1850 were such that no one felt any fear about the daring of capital to stretch the steel rails across the continent. Everybody wanted it to happen, although it took the amassed savings of generations in the form of capital to finance the project. The railroads grew, became powerful, abused their power. It used to be said that ownership of the highway means the ownership of everything. Upon that abuse grew the trusts, such as the coal trust, the oil trust, the beef trust, the whiskey trust, etc. Thereupon the public in its innocent way set up what it thought was the proper machinery to regulate the railroads and the trusts. Take the Interstate Commerce Commission, for example, created in the 1880's to regulate the railroads. It had but little power at first. A shipper protesting against an unfair rate that was charged him by a railroad could appear before the Interstate Commerce Commission, have a hearing, and the Interstate Commerce Commission, if it saw fit, could order the railroad to change the rate. This did not correct the evils of unfair rates and rebates, so the Interstate Commerce Commission in later years received from Congress the power to make the rates. Now a railroad has to go to the Interstate Commerce Commission to get its rate changed.

The existence of the Interstate Commerce Commission and many other regulatory bodies that have sprung up since, constitutes what we call "bureaucracy." I saw in the newspaper, and cannot vouch for its accuracy, the statement that there are ten million people in the United States today drawing salaries from public taxes whose sole function is to be a part of this bureaucratic, regulatory machinery. Politicians find it very easy to pay their political debts by placing on the payrolls of a bureau some friend who has assisted them to their election. If the figure, ten million, is correct, bureaucracy is a cancer that will destroy our government.

The break will come when taxes grow so high that those who own things, in other words, the man who has saved, will say, "I will not pay my taxes." I am wondering if today the great financial captains, and I mean by that expression not the men who have inherited from their ancestors enormous estates, but the men who occupy the greatest positions of financial responsibility that exist in civilization; namely, the men who control the funds that are paid into life insurance companies, the men who control the funds in our large banking institutions—I am wondering if they are properly appreciated. It is so easy to bring up a generation of young people, preaching to them the injustice that wealth exercises over poverty and sneering at capital and the men who control it, where, as a matter of fact, the men who really control the wealth of the world are so weighed with responsibility that they could not possibly represent anything except the best interests of all the people who have saved their money to take care of them in their old age, when work is no longer possible and younger people must take the helm. I understand that the savings that are put into life insurance are ten times the accumulations of our banks in the United States. An association of presidents of life insurance companies would be a body of men controlling enormous wealth—billions of dollars. I cannot see how they could possibly do anything except invest that saving in the most substantial industries in the country, and I cannot see how they could take any other position, if taxation grows too great, than to refuse to loan the capital under their control. To strip this argument down, doing away with all large words, the government is saying to capital, "You may invest, but we will regulate your money after you have invested it." Do I hear the whisper of capital answering, "We will not invest"?

In the light of your studies in political economy and of your talks with your parents about financial affairs, I suggest that you project in imagination the results that would follow from just such a controversy and compare those imaginary results with what you have seen in the country today. To the graduating class of the Carl Schurz High School of February, 1932, I submit this thought, conscious that within a few years, and perhaps even now, they are able to weigh it without prejudice.

Class History

By Ardis Olsen and Harold Nichols

The dying coals glowed feebly on the hearth
And purple shadows darkened all the earth;
A ruddy haze enlightened all the room.
Two school chums sat thinking in that gloom
While silently their minds were filled with thoughts
And mem'ries of the days just gone before,
Of classes, fun, and pleasures that for them
Would never be again. Their hearts gushed o'er
With sadness, and their eyes o'erbrimmed with tears.
While watching embers die, a single thought
Within their minds—"To live again these years!"
The dimness of the ruddy coals made right
An atmosphere and time for retrospect,
And suddenly to us it seemed the light,
Was flick'ring low. 'Twas then we did detect
The presence of a snowy bearded man.
His flowing locks and whiskers trailed the ground,
He clutched a scythe within his scrawny hand
And hoarsely croaked, as closely peering round;
"O dost not know, O youths, that time stops not
For petty whim, not even life or death!"
But youth undaunted dares to ask a lot
And begged in pleading tones just one request,
"Turn back the hands of time tonight! To see,
Once more, the joy and fun of schoolhood days!
Just this, no more, do we dare ask of thee!"
We waited then to hear what he would say.
Then mutt'ring low in angry tones, he grasp'd
The time-worn hands of yonder ancient clock,
A jerky tug, a sudden jarring creek;
Though slow, yet sure, the iv'ry hands start back.

* * * * *

On that remembered night in thirty-two,
'Twas January then, we did depart
For graduation was our last 'sembly
When we received diplomas long and white.
While the clock kept winding out mem'ries,
The Class Day Banquet and the Senior Prom,
Remembrances of happy days gone by,
Did come into the thoughts of two who watched

The glowing coals burn brightly and who heard
The clock tick backwards through the four short years.
Class Notables were then chosen with care
As was a motto for the senior class.
The Prosperity Prance did thank us from
The 4B class whom we did welcome
With our depression Dance as were the times.
The senior officers to rule the class
Were duly elected and so installed.
Committees for the execution were
Appointed and performed their duties well.
As 4B's we did thank with our Début
The 4A's for their March Meander gay.
To Washington and thereabouts we went
When Spring vacation came and made us free.
The 3A Dansant was a merry time
And we had many while in N. A. H.
One night in busses three we traveled far
To have the yogy part us from our seats
As we did marvel at "The House of Fear".
A Maytime Frolic gave us lots of fun.
And, how we journeyed to the Sandy Dunes.
On holidays we there did go and burnt
While swimming just beneath the sun's hot rays.
Our social life began when we became
The jolly juniors and did celebrate
With our first party, when we said, "Howdy!"
As o'er the second high school year we think,
The fires lower grow and mem'ries sweet
Seem fainter as the clock tells forth the tale
That freshman once we were but are no more.
And as the day we came, eager to learn,
Into the thoughts of us does slowly creep,
The clock has tolled the final sound for those
Who watch the dying embers slowly turn
From brilliant red to paling pink and white.

* * * * *

The clock about has turned to tick once more
As we our sails do set for future times. Farewell!

ATTITUDES

Soccer

Although the Purple soccer team finished the 1931 season in third place, the fight and grit it displayed and the fine leadership manifested by Captain Orville Ristow, makes the team as worthy of praise as if it had won the championship for Schurz.

In the opening game of the season they were defeated by the powerful Harrison team 4-0. Still playing doggedly but against Lady Luck the next three games were 0-0 ties with Crane and Lake View and a 4-3 loss at the hands of a scrappy Lane outfit.

Staging an upset that was to start a four game winning streak, the booters trampled Harrison by a score of 6-3. Tilden then bowed twice to the Purple, 6-2 and 2-0. Lake View proved Schurz' next victim by losing 4-0.

By tying Lane 2-2 Schurz lost all hope of winning the title, and after losing to Crane Tech 4-0, the Purple and Gold had to be satisfied with third place.

Thirteen letters were awarded to players and to the two managers, Paul Jarnowski and Merritt Koch. The players receiving the major monogram, are: Captain Orville Ristow who led his team from a half back position; Melvin Ellingsen, whose stellar playing ranked him as one of the team's finest; Murray Franklin, Walter Koch, and Raymond Schutt whose fine playing and good teamwork were highlights of the season; and also Bedard, Israel, Loeser, Oelkers, Ollinquist, Mazzuca, Tamillow, Voight, and Boehn.

Orville Ristow, center half-back, and captain elect, Raymond Schutt, right half-back, were the outstanding figures in the defensive portion of the Purple.

As a reward for his excellent playing all season, Raymond Schutt was elected to captain the 1932 booters.

Football

For the fourth time in the last five seasons of prep football competition a Schurz team coached by Bob Koehler has gained the coveted title of "Mighty Monarchs of the North."

After dropping the first three practice games to Waukegan, La Grange, and New Trier, the Purple and Gold gridders were conceded a cellar berth in the title race by the sports reporters.

Just how badly mistaken they were is shown in the fact that Waller was beaten 18-0, and after four league games the Go-Boys possessed an uncrossed goal line while running up a total of 42 points. They then played a scoreless tie with a strong Tilden outfit on a sea of mud, and after a flip of a coin, entered the finals only to be beaten by one of the best teams in the state, Harrison.

In all games this season, the Schurz stalwarts lived up to the reputation of their great institution by playing a hard, clean game from beginning to end. At all times the players showed true Schurz sportsmanship by being generous winners and above all, good losers.

Lane 0	"	6
Senn 0	"	6
Tilden 0	"	0
Harrison 26	"	6

Beginning the league season as the under-dogs, the Go-Boys walked all over the Roosevelt team 18-0. The lion's share of the praise goes to Captain Frank Kissner, Smith, Osborn, Tischler, and Wollin, the boy who reminds football enthusiasts of Stinespring.

Still the underdogs, Schurz pushed over the highly touted Lake View players 12-0. The Purple backfield men ran wild through the Red and White line and were only stopped after good gains by the secondary defense. The play of Spuehr, Kissner, Koehler, Hanson, and Tischler stood out. Fourier and Borchert who alternate at right end, gave a remarkable exhibition of blocking and tackling.

CHARLES PAOLI
Chuck could open up holes in the opposition's line that a back could walk through.

JAMES ZEIGLER
Making up what he lacked in weight by spirit he fought hard at center.

WILLIAM BAUM
Bill was one of the best Schurz linemen.

ARTHUR THONANDER
"Eagle" was always ready with a helping hand or a friendly word.

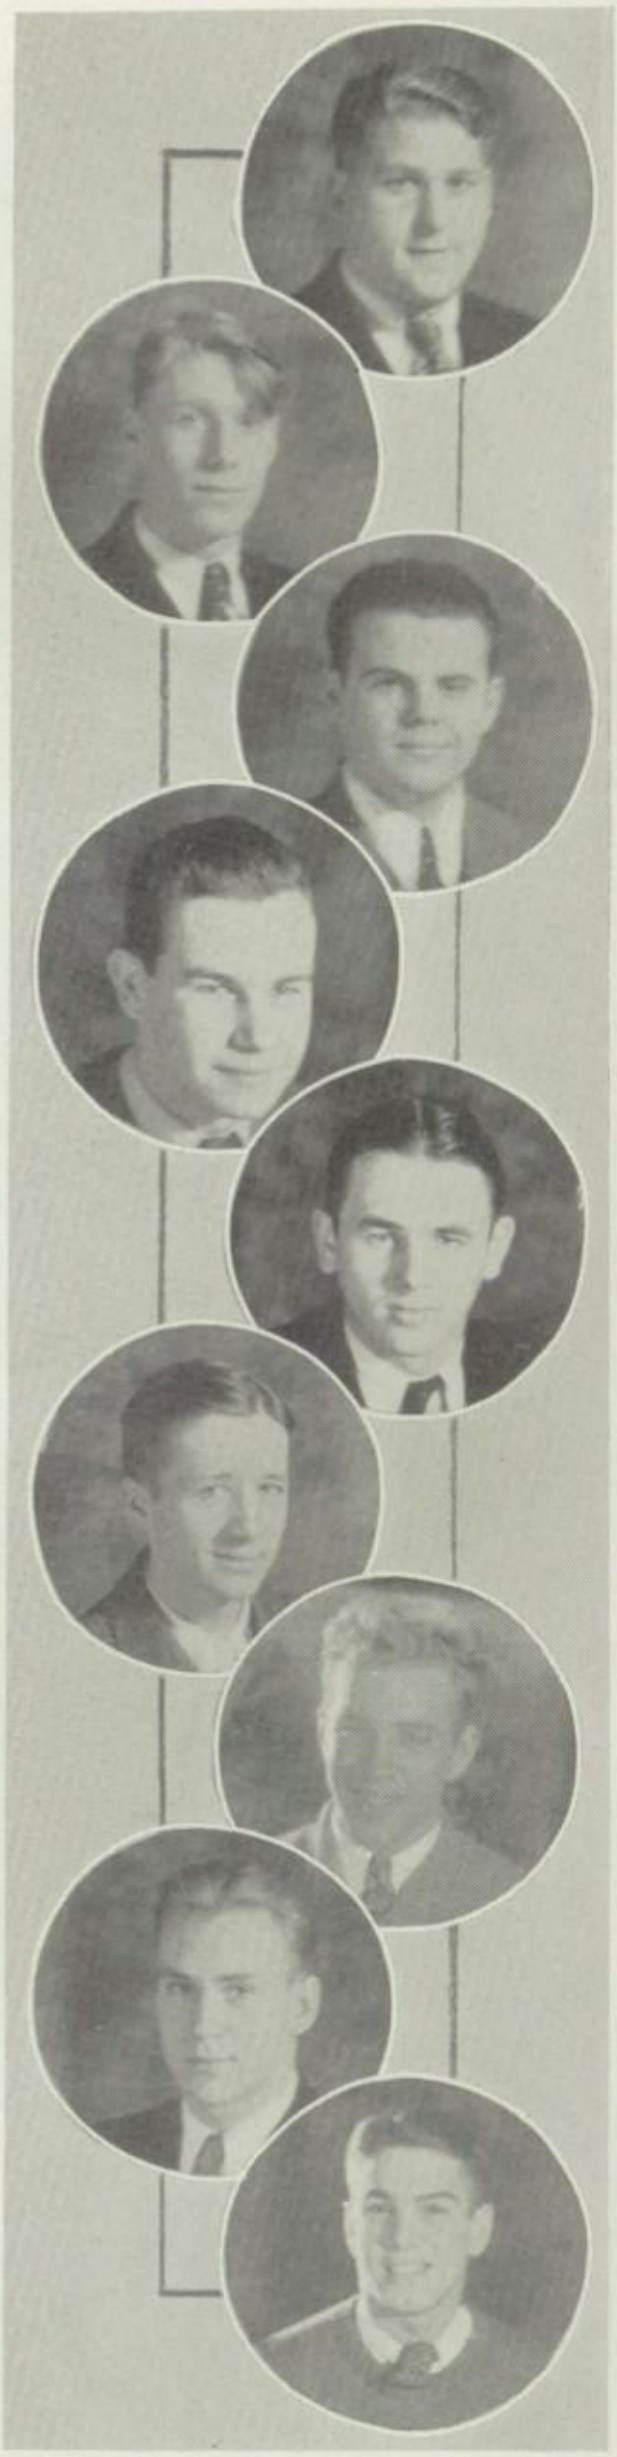
CASIMIR WINIARSKI
Cas gave everything he had and then more.

STANLEY OSWALDOSKI
Although playing with an injured shoulder, Stan always came through.

ARTHUR SCHWARTZ
Next season at guard he will be a hard man to pass.

HARRY SMITH
An injured knee kept Smithy from showing his great worth to the team.

EDWARD HANSEN
Ed's heady playing saved the Purple on more than one occasion.



Over confidence on the part of the Go-Boys nearly lost the Lane game. Played before 20,000 spectators at Soldiers' Field, this annual Homecoming Day game was saved by the fleet-footedness of Johnny Suerth who sprinted 23 yards for the lone tally in the third quarter. Completely outplayed for three quarters, the Purple and Gold team started to function in the last quarter and from then on the Laneites were stopped in their tracks.

Senn nearly proved an upset by holding the gridders to a scoreless tie until three minutes from the end of the last quarter when some brilliant ball carrying by Fred Koehler put the ball within scoring distance. Matt Tischler who had been resting an injured knee was hurried into the game to plunge for the winning touchdown.

For the semi-final game against a strong Tilden outfit, the weather man supplied a muddy, water-covered gridiron. Deceptive football was impossible and as straight, plain football was resorted to, it was easily seen that neither goal line would be splashed across. Standing ankle deep in mud and water, Tischler of Schurz and Ferguson, Tilden's star half-back, both averaged 37 yards for their punting with the heavy, water-soaked ball. The defense scintillated on both teams.

Meeting Harrison, a team composed of veterans of three years of high school league play, at Mills Stadium on a gridiron of mud, the Purple and Gold gridmen gave everything they had and more, but still their best was not good enough to beat the Hornets' lightning-like attack. The Schurz lone marker was scored by Matt Tischler.

Captain Frank Kissner was awarded the tackle position on the honorary All-City team picked by the Chicago newspapers. Both Russell Spuehr and Matt Tischler were given honorable mentions, but in the opinion of many coaches and sports writers they deserved a higher ranking.

The team will lose, through graduation, Wollin, Suerth, Tischler, Captain Kissner, Smith, Duffy, Spuehr, Borchert, Linehan, Arfsten, Babiarz, Fourier, Oswaldoski, Paoli, Winiarski, and the two managers, Thonander and Amour.

FRANK KISSNER

The great "All City" captain was the bulwark of the Purple line.

FRED KOEHLER

Playing brilliant football all season, Fred is to captain the 1932 gridders.

ROBERT WOLLIN

Bob was one of the fastest backs ever to represent Schurz.

RUSSELL SPUEHR

Russ' great playing for two years ranks him with the finest ends in the City.

FRED BORCHERT

A four letter man, Borch was one of the fastest men on the team.

JOHN SUERTH

It was his 23-yard dash that saved the team from defeat by Lane.

JOHN LINEHAN

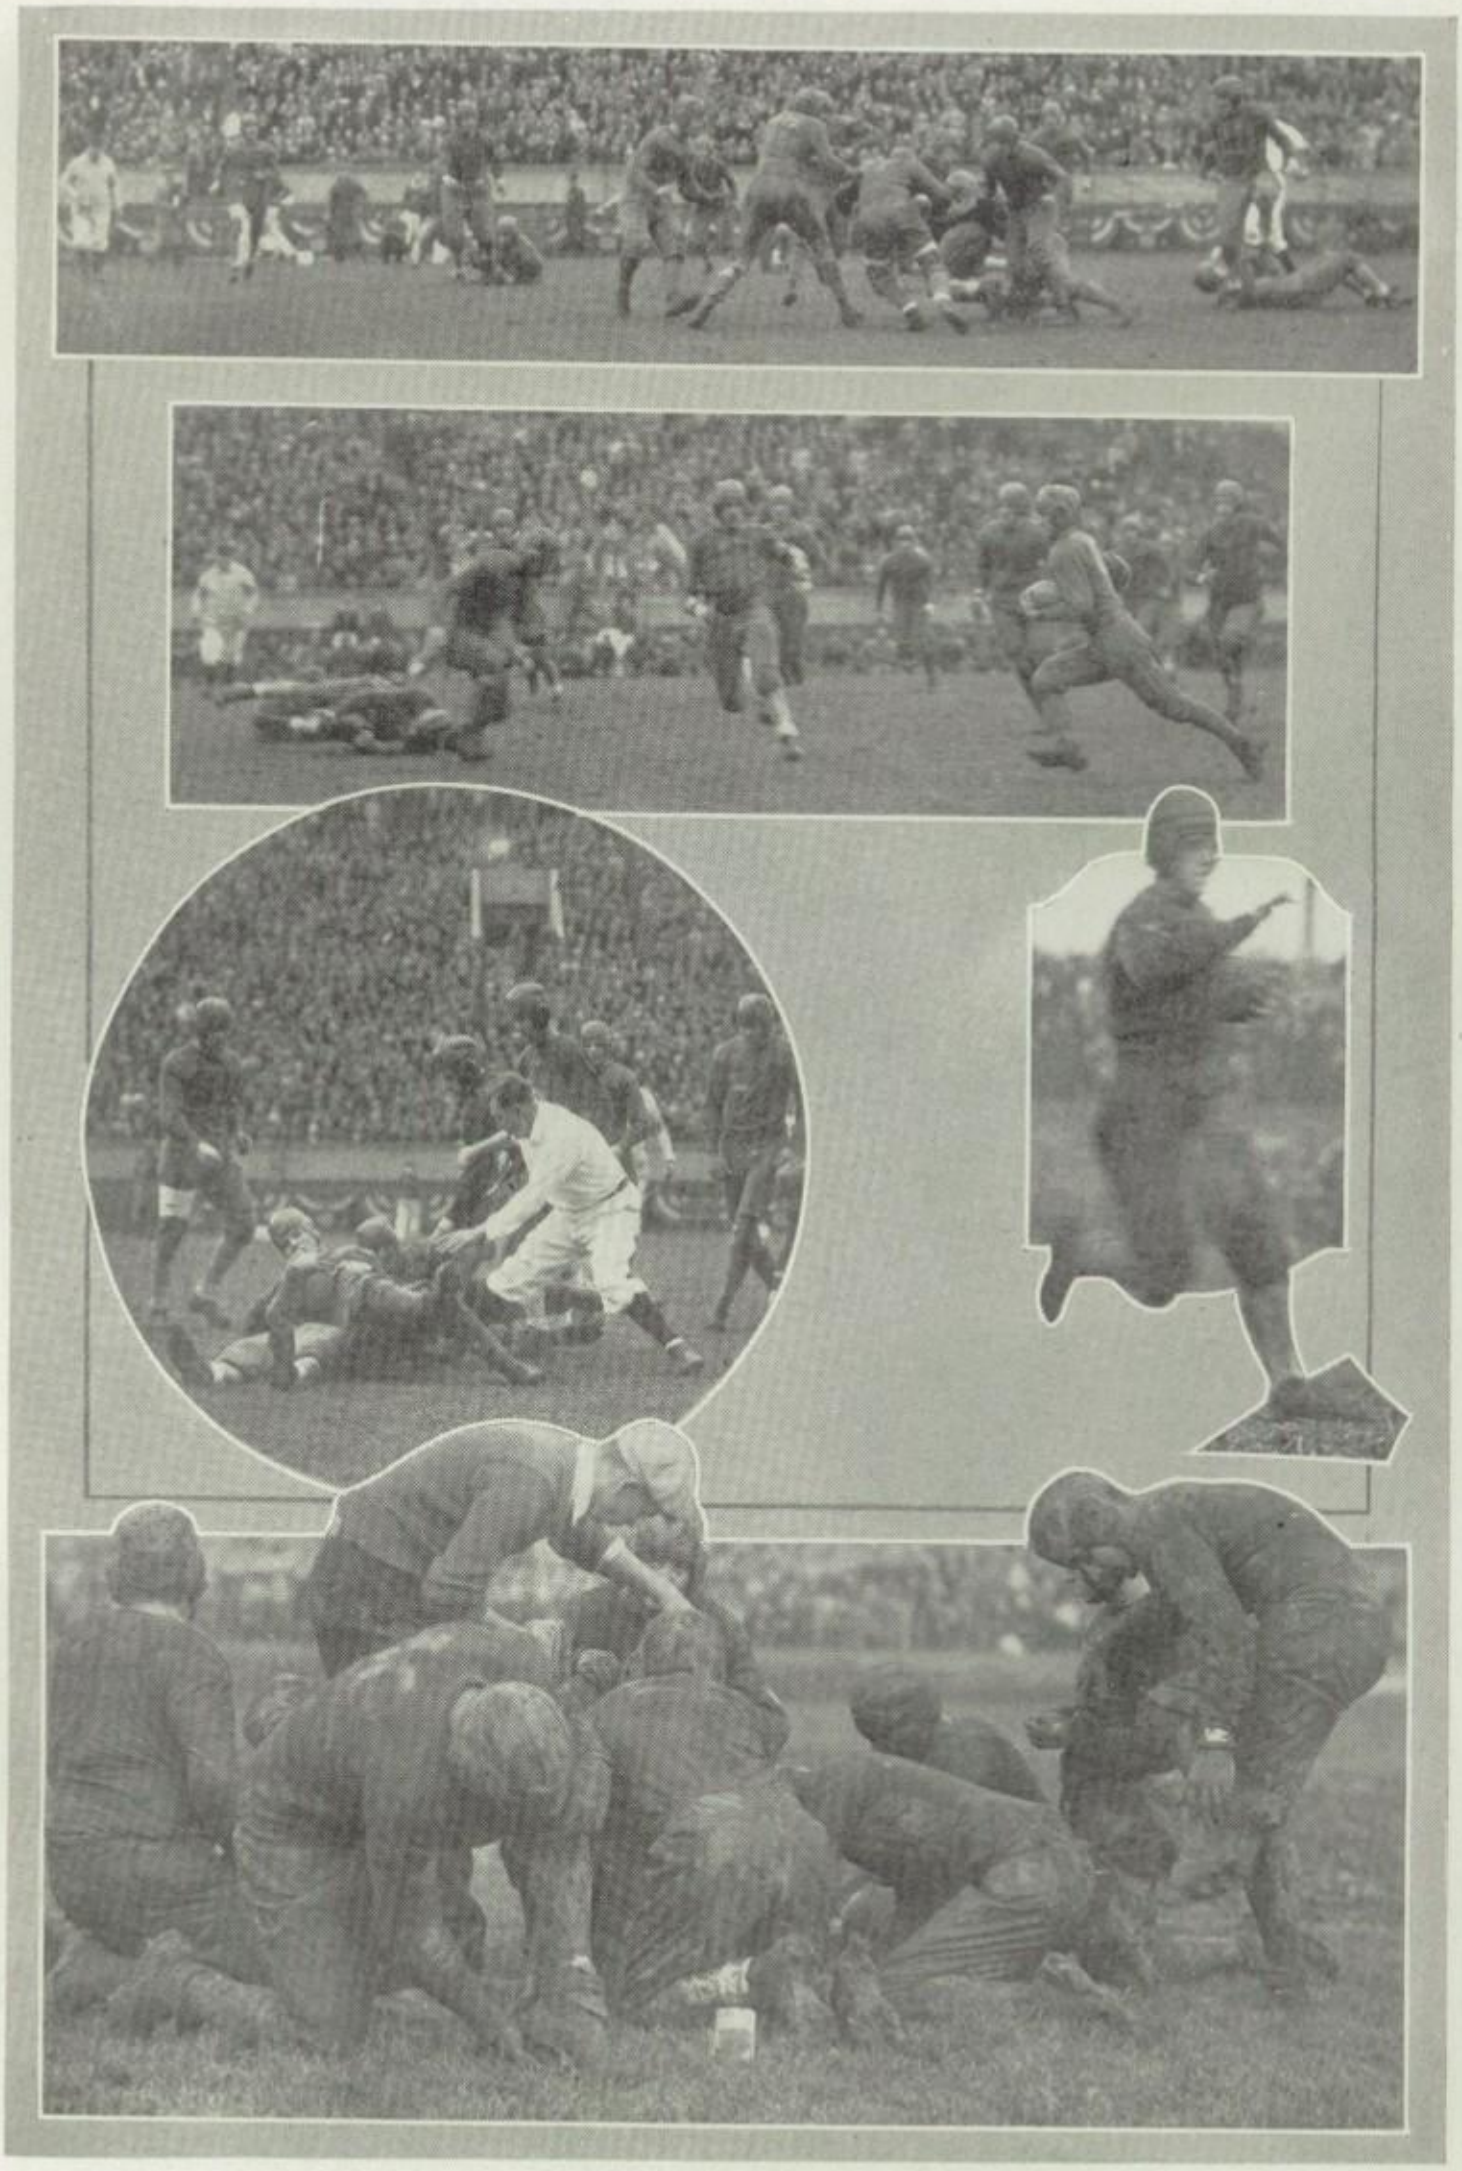
The "People's Choice" broke up the opposition's plays before they were underway.

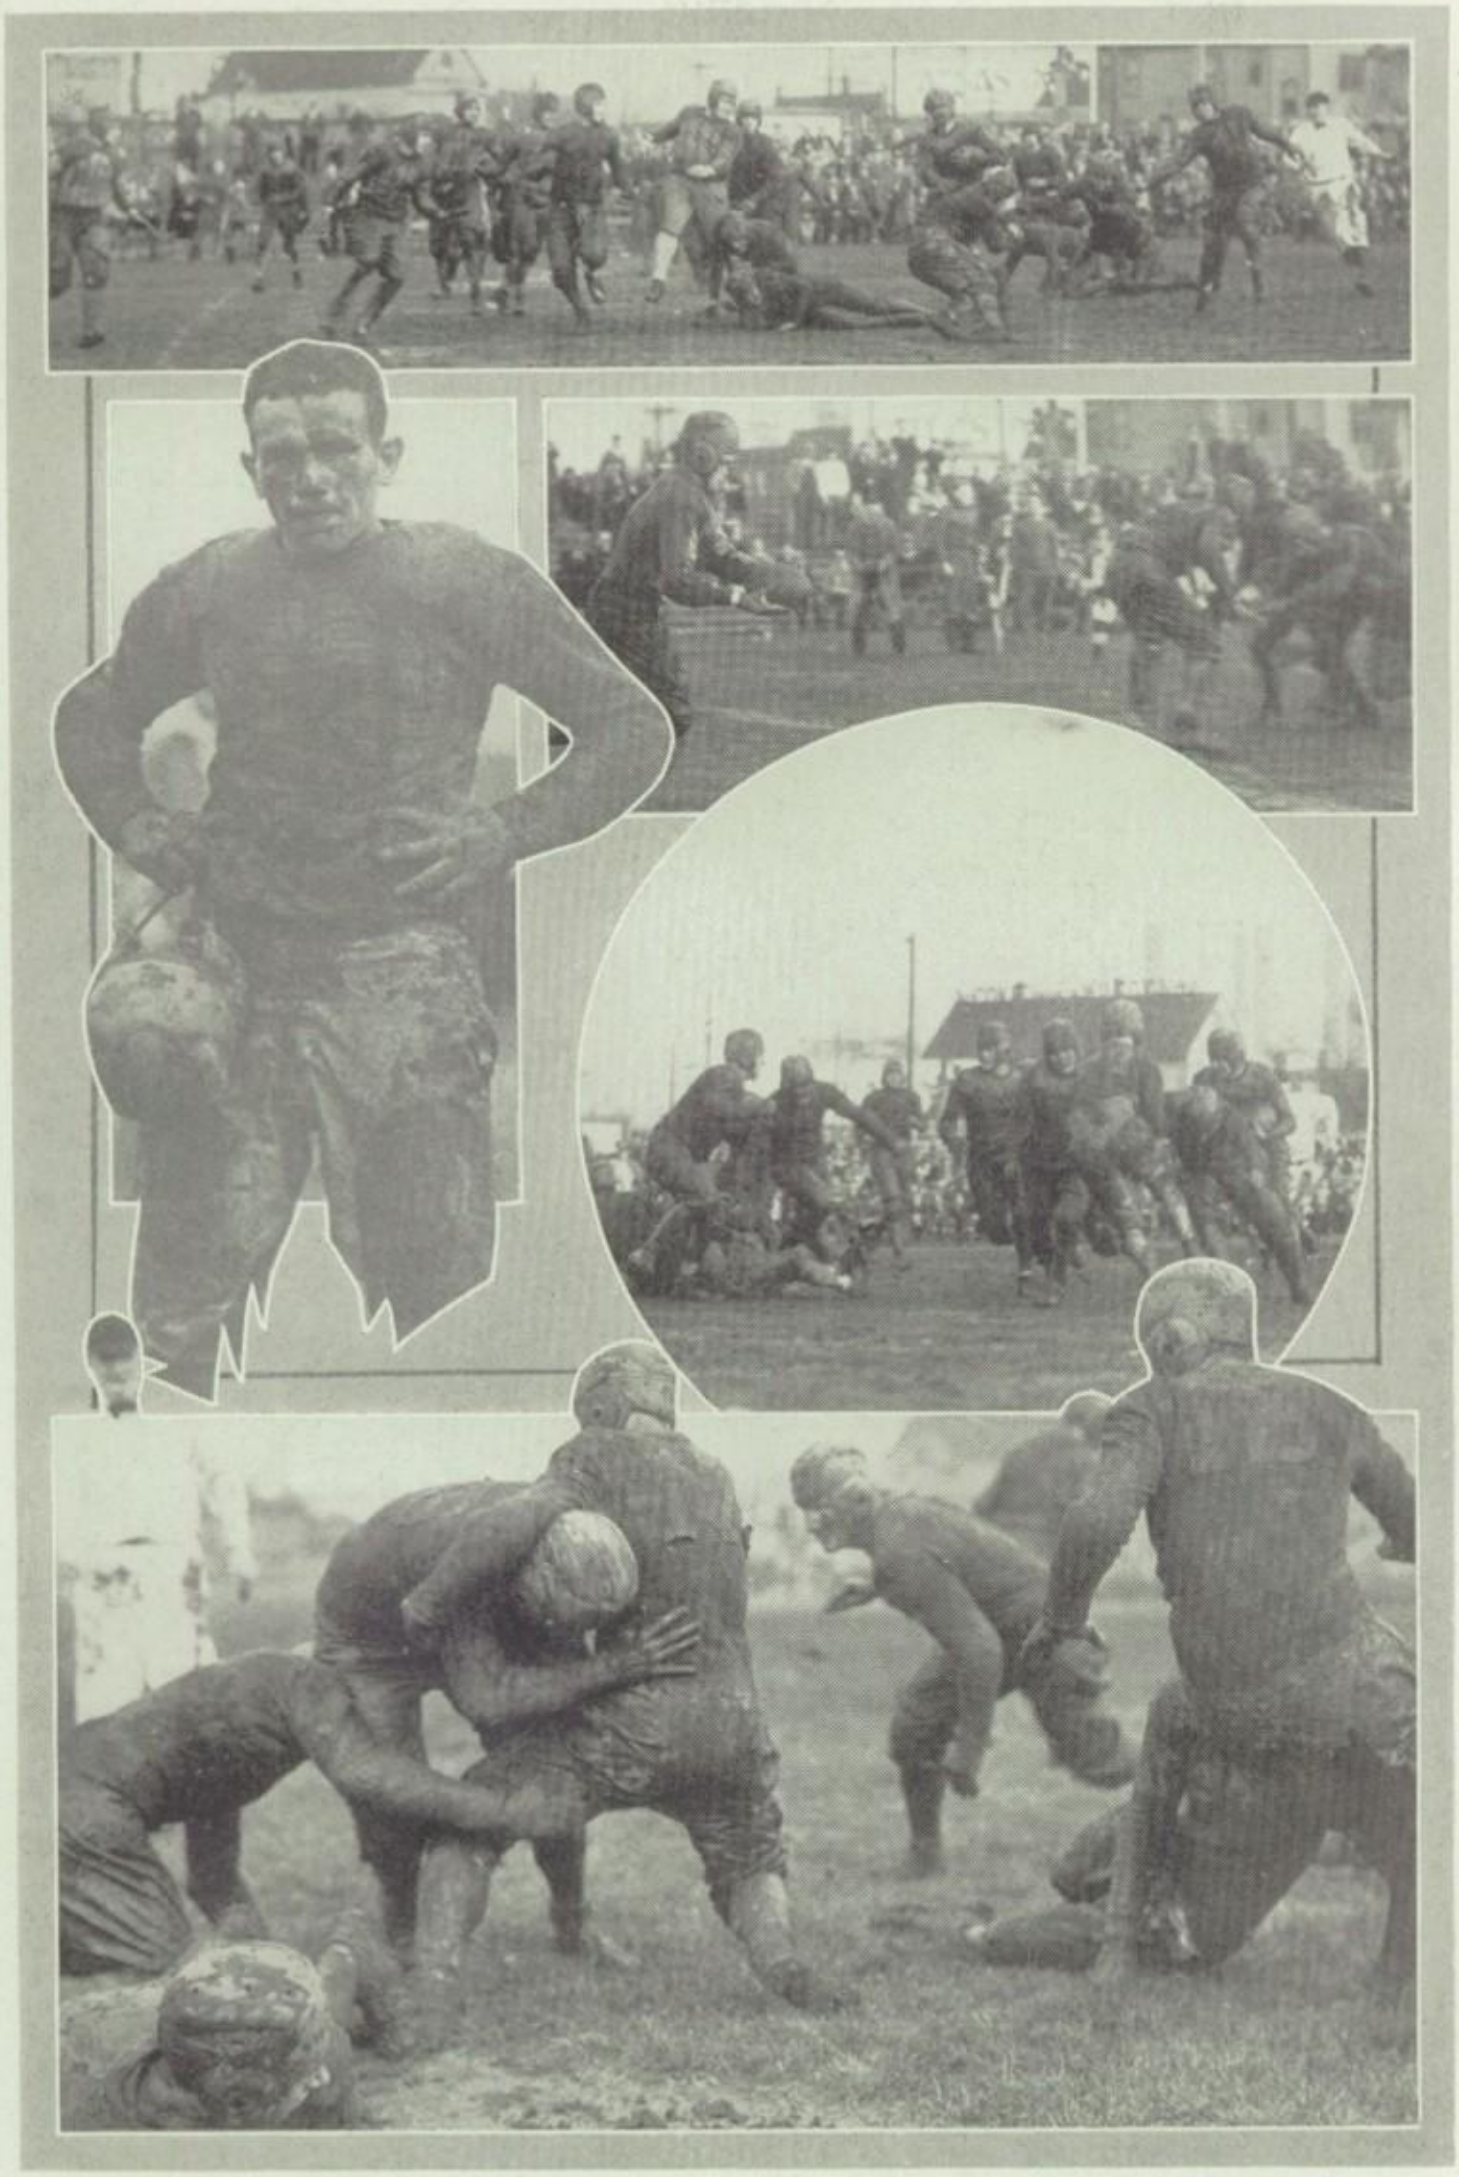
ANTHONY BABIARZ

Beebe from his tackle position played strong football all season.

REIDAR OVESON

The way he can back up a line is worth watching.





Swimming

Again placing Schurz high among the leaders in high school swimming circles, the Purple mermen tutored by Coach Otto E. Harz, have completed a highly successful season.

Led by such veterans as Captain Tischler, Koch, Sielski, and Stabowitz, the tankmen outclassed Lake View, Crane, Marshall, and Roosevelt, but were outsplashed by Lane and Austin.

In the city meet held December 12 the Seniors were able to gain second place. Tischler, Koch, Tvorah, Knaus, and Stabowitz were the point winners.

Led by the young phenomenon Harry Rieke, the Purple junior natators placed third in the city meet.

Swimming in superb style, Rieke set a new city record in the 40 yard back stroke after taking first place in the 100 yard free style.

The team will feel keenly the loss by graduation of Captain Tischler, who has been a mainstay of the team for three years, Rodger Knaus, Ray Miller, and John Mueller. However, by the return of Koch, Rieke, Stabowitz, and Sielski the team will have a nucleus of veterans around which Coach Harz plans to build a Championship team for next season.

Basketball

A squad of girls from the advanced gym class was chosen from which a school team and the class teams were finally picked.

These girls first worked on shooting baskets until they had developed their shooting eye to a fair degree. Then they practiced passing, pivoting, and dribbling. Finally class teams were chosen subject to changes at any time. These teams then practiced up and down the floor until some plays were worked up.

The senior team developed the fastest, a result which was quite natural, as this team had been together before. Meinesz, Sather, Eiberg, Lumpp, Richardson, Richey, Budelsky, and Salava composed the team.

One round of interclass games was played which proved to be very interesting. The senior-sophomore game started the series in which the seniors showed their superiority by winning 45-5. Those who opposed the seniors were: Dittmer, A. Berensohn, Wallace, B. Berensohn, Wagner, Colegate, Davies, Held, Michaleck, Brucer, and Belolaveka.

The juniors took a stand against the sophomores, but they were defeated in 18-13. The juniors who composed the team were Groot, Greene, Fikis, Kostka, Baehls, Hazucha, Zeigler, Von Boenick, Krezlowski, and Schoenwahr.

A school team was chosen entirely of seniors. As a result of their timing, passing, and shooting they were able to compete with any of the sophomores and juniors. The school team is exactly the same as the senior team, having Eiberg, Meinesz, Sather, Lumpp, Richardson, Budelsky, and Richey in its services.

No outside games have been played, but some have already been scheduled. Hopes are running high, for this school team comes up to the standards of any of recent years.

The senior-junior game which was looked forward to as a very tie game turned out very differently. The strong seniors almost swept the juniors off their feet when they won by a score of 19-5.

The bad points given about all of the teams was slow passing, shooting without aiming, and too much dribbling. These points have slowed up the games considerably and made them look worse than they really were. On the other hand many of the players have overcome these bad points already.

Hockey

Hockey was the center of all activities in the early part of the semester. Under the leadership of Miss Anne Shanewise the class teams were organized and worked up to a degree that was above the average.

Three rounds of interclass games were played. The seniors proved to be great victors for they did not lose a game. Next to the seniors the juniors proved to be the strongest. The sophomores also showed some good material for the future, but their lack of experience proved to be a great handicap.

Interclass games were played with North Shore Country Day School on November 18. The senior team composed of Sather, Richardson, Eiberg, Lumpp, Haase, Salava, Richey, Voelsch, Detjen, Budelsky, Funari, and Meinesz was the only one which came out victorious. The sophomore and junior teams each lost by a small margin. The juniors who made the class team were Koegelheider, Krezlowski, Greene, Fikis, Work, Von Beonick, Zablocki, Kostka, Zeigler, Tosch, and Rudolph. The sophomore team had the service of Colegate, B. Berendsohn, Bergman, Wallace, Brucer, James, Joppeck, Hultberg, Belolock, A. Berendsohn, De Freest, Michalek, Egan, Davies, and Held.

After the games with North Shore Country Day School a final school team was chosen from the members of the class teams. The members of this team received the school "S". Those chosen were Eiberg, Lumpp, Richey, Sather, Richardson, Detjen, Budelsky, Zablocki, Voelsch, Haase, and Salava. The team was unable to play any games because of the interruption of cold weather, but it did have several practices and proved to be strong.

All of the members of the interclass teams received emblems of which they are justly proud. These teams worked together for months before they acquired the skill which they looked forward to as a great achievement.

The interest of the girls was shown by the fact that they gave up their time in the afternoons and even on Saturdays and Sundays to develop team work. Humboldt Park and the Midway in South Chicago were the scenes of some of these practices. Accomplishment was achieved which was very noticeable to any observer of the game. Quick, accurate shooting, correct passing, and a great amount of teamwork was developed in a large degree.

Swimming

As a great number of girls reported for the advanced swimming class this year, there was quite a choice selection for the school team. Some material was left from last year, but the greater amount of it had to be developed from beginners.

An interclass swimming meet was held to find out which team was the strongest. There was a great deal of competition because all three teams were evenly matched. The juniors and seniors proved to be great rivals throughout the entire meet and the juniors finally won by two points. The sophomores were also in the running, but the experience and teamwork of the upper classmen defeated them.

A school team was chosen from all of the members of the class teams. The most valuable swimmers received a big "S" while those who were almost as valuable received a small "S." The school team big "S" was won by Highland, Howardsen, Nielson, Richardson, Olsen, Hanson, Augustine, Luhr, Greene, Klupta, Larson, Gunderson, and Jensen. The small "S" was won by two swimmers, Tosch and Mondschien.

Members of the school team competed in various meets outside of school. Many of them broke records and still more received either first, second, or third places. Almost the entire school team entered a meet sponsored by the Illinois Women's Athletic Club.

In the forty yard back stroke two Schurz girls came in; Luhr received second place in 30.1 and Highland came in third.

None of the Schurz girls placed in the forty yard crawl, but the time 25.2 made by Olsen in one of her heats was better than the time made by the one who received first place.

The record for the medley was 48.3. Larson came in second in this event.

The forty yard breast stroke record was 33.3. Schurz again displayed her colors when Jensen came in second.

The diving was one of the greatest events of the meet. Such good diving was displayed that it was difficult to judge which one was the best. One girl from Schurz again placed, Ann Jensen taking third place.

This meet really showed the worth of the Schurz girls as they competed with girls from the entire state.
